To Whom it May Concern

Re: Australian Enviro Services Reference

CD Commercial Projects Pty Ltd engaged Australian Enviro Services (AES) to conduct remedial works at our City Ford project in Surry Hills. This project has been technically difficult, involving an unexpected expansion of scope as well as a technical review by a NSW EPA Site Auditor.

I found AES to be extremely responsive when dealing with the many additional tanks that were discovered and openly transparent with all additional costs as the increase in scope works ended up being more than double the original contract value. At each stage, AES performed their works in a professional manner with an emphasis on safety and environmental responsibility. I found their ability to maintain effective communication between our site personnel, sub-contractors and NSW EPA Site Auditor to be critical in resolving the unexpected challenges that we experienced.

As such I would have no hesitation in providing a reference for James Costello and all his team at Australian Enviro Services.
